Statement of Philosophy
Experiences in the disciplined study of the dramatic arts significantly contribute to students’ success in the 21st Century. The development of communication skills creates heightened awareness and expression of self as well as empathy for others. Active collaboration promotes personal and group risk taking, flexibility, creativity, persistence and problem solving. The dramatic arts invite students to embrace opportunities to thrive and struggle, lead and follow, and create, critique and connect in a safe stimulating environment.

| Standard 1: Script writing by the creation of improvisations and scripted scenes based on personal experience and heritage, imagination, literature, and history. | • Students individually and in groups, create characters, environments, and actions that create tension and suspense.
• Students refine dialogue and action. |
| Standard 2: Acting by developing basic acting skills to portray characters who interact in improvised and scripted scenes. | • Students analyze descriptions, dialogue, and actions to discover, articulate, and justify character motivation and invent character behaviors based on the observation of interactions, ethical choices, and emotional responses of people.
• Students demonstrate acting skills (such as sensory recall, concentration, breath control, diction, body alignment, control of isolated body parts) to develop characterizations that suggest artistic choices.
• Students in an ensemble, interact as the invented characters. |
| Standard 3: Designing by developing environments for improvised and scripted scenes. | • Students work collaboratively and safely to select and create imagined elements of scenery and properties to signify environments and to suggest character. |
| Standard 4: Directing by organizing rehearsals for improvised and scripted scenes. | • Students lead small groups in planning visual and aural elements and in rehearsing improvised and scripted scenes, demonstrating social, group, and consensus skills. |
| Standard 5: Researching by using cultural and historical information to support improvised and scripted scenes. | • Students apply research from print and non-print sources to script writing, acting, design, and directing choices. |
| Standard 6: Comparing and incorporating art forms by analyzing methods of presentation and audience response for theatre, dramatic media (such as film, television, and electronic media), and other art forms. | • Students describe characteristics and compare the presentation of characters, environments, and actions in theatre and dramatic media.
• Students incorporate elements of dance and music to express ideas and emotions in improvised scenes.
• Students express and compare personal reactions to several art forms. |
| Standard 7: Analyzing, evaluating, and constructing meanings from improvised and scripted scenes and from theatre, film, television, and electronic media productions. | • Students articulate and support the meanings constructed from their and others’ dramatic performances.
• Students articulate using criteria to describe, analyze, and constructively evaluate the perceived effectiveness of artistic choices found in dramatic performances.
• Students describe and evaluate the perceived effectiveness of students’ contributions to the collaborative process of developing improvised scenes. |
| Standard 8: Understanding context by analyzing the role of theatre, film, television, and electronic media in the community and in other cultures. | • Students analyze the emotional and social impact of dramatic events in their lives, in the community, and in other cultures.
• Students explain how culture affects the content of dramatic performances.
• Students explain how social concepts such as cooperation, communication, collaboration, consensus, self-esteem, risk taking, sympathy, and empathy apply in theatre and daily life. |

Course Description

The Improv course is an introduction to the elements of improvisation. Students will gain an experiential understanding of both comedic and dramatic acting through application of improvisational techniques. This reflective course will culminate in a performance-based presentation in front of a live audience. These experiences may include, but are not limited to:

- Contributing and accepting ideas.
- Collaborating and supporting the ensemble on and off stage.
- Challenging oneself and the team to take greater risks.
- Creating characters, conflicts and environments.
- Connecting with characters and story.

Summative Performance Assessment

- Given a choice among improvisation, students will perform for an invited audience.
  - Possible Games:
    - Slide Show
    - Taxi
    - Four Corners
- Students will create and perform a short theatre piece applying their knowledge of improvisational techniques and elements of theatre.
